

Today was a perfect day. Well placed and formulated news and the positive reaction of the market. 13 Mio plus turnover is heavy (6 % of the OS) and an increase of 67 %. Nothing to complain. If you look at this chart then you can see the good old 50 days moving average (Yellow Line) – a technical benchmark for a lot of position traders. Once above – positions against the box will have to be reversed. Todays trading was discipline at it's best – allowing sellers to come in and the catch their position and up again. And by the way, we closed today at the high of the day. Some shorties will try to defend the 0.03 level and then again show up in full force around the 0.04 level as they do know – once those resistance points are cleared , the market will try to kiss the 0.08 level. Let' s analyse the market over the weekend – but keep in mind – this volume today has been achieve despite holiday season and Olympics.